

Unite with Original Nations in a Gathering for the Biocultural Preservation-Regeneration of the Arctic North

Join in the call for resourcing cross-cultural dialogues-collaborations in Iceland/ Greenland 23'

We invite you to join a global collaboration to supporting the preservation of the Biocultural Diversity of the Arctic North.

Did you know that ...

The Arctic North is home to over 4,000,000 people, 400,000 of which are Indigenous from multiple nations with their unique knowledge, culture and languages all facing the impending impact and threat of severe climate change.

Why The Arctic North matters to all of us?

- Were you aware that what happens in the Arctic does not stay in the Arctic?

The impact of climate change in the Arctic is four times higher on average than elsewhere, caused by a phenomenon known as “Arctic amplification”. It has a global consequence on the living systems and environments of the world. The impact on the sustainable living of its inhabitants is at risk. Most rapidly increasing temperatures, thawing permafrost, extreme weather patterns, loss of sea ice and glaciers, forest and ground fires, all of which requires global attention.

- Did you know that the Arctic North holds 30% of Mother Earth’s resource of the Globe

It is time to look at a responsible stewardship of the Arctic regions and it’s resources and the economic and environmental impacts of use of resources and the potential drastic impacts and consequences this will have on the Arctic countries and their communities.

- Why unite around the sustainable development of the Arctic North?

The Arctic requires increased cooperation for more knowledge and awareness raising that will lead to reasonable and responsible governance for restorative and regenerative development approaches.

Join our Collective Collaboration to resource the voice of Mother Earth and bring the ancestral knowledge of the Original Nations forward in a collaborative dialogue with the youth, policy makers, climate change activists, educators, scientists and community leaders of the Arctic North.

How can you join our collaborative resourcing effort?

We are inviting you to support the participation of the Mother Earth Delegation of United Original Nations at the Arctic Assembly Iceland, and ignite the Sacred Earth Payment Pilgrimage lead by the Kogi, Kagabba Nation to Iceland and Greenland with the aim to regenerate the Arctic North and it's sacred Natural Sites. From October 15th to October 25th, 23'

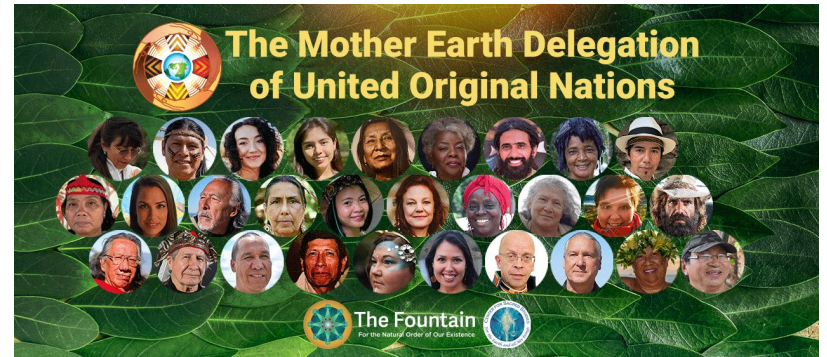

Who is the Mother Earth Delegation?

The Mother Earth Delegation of United Original Nations follows the instructions of Mother Earth led by the wisdom of Original Peoples will join the Arctic Circle Assembly in Reykjavik, Iceland, to share about their global unification movement afoot in accordance with ancestral protocols standing up for the Rights of Mother Earth and Nature's Law.

At the Arctic Assembly the Mother Earth Delegates will co-create a side-events with community leaders from the North and take part in the plenary presentations and bring their message forward in a press conference.

- Talk about stewardship of the Arctic environment, climate challenges and opportunities for the preservation of biocultural diversity as well as its economies.
- Talk about the changing conditions and how they certainly create new opportunities but also new and additional threats, both of which have become central issues in international and European relations strongly impacted by the history of colonial presence in the Arctic and attitudes that have been qualified as neo-colonialist.

Would you like to support The Kogi, Kagabba Nation Arctic North Sacred Earth Payments Pilgrimage? - October 22nd to 25th 23'

The Mamos of La Sierra Nevada de Santa Marta, representatives of the Kaggaba Nation in Colombia, have requested to travel to the Arctic North starting with Iceland and Greenland this year as part of a long-term commitment to offering Earth Payments to the Northern natural sites. The Mamos have been instructed to come to the Arctic North offering traditional earth payments to Northern natural Sacred Sites, to support the balancing of the elements which currently are strongly impacting Climate Change events. They bring an important message to the People of the North facing climate change impact.

"The snowy peaks of the North have invited us to come to do the pagamentos and help unify the spiritual connection".
